

Handing Over of Safety Officer, Ship Security Officer or Medical Officer

SMM/vl/crew/010 – Handing Over of Safety Officer, Ship Security Officer or Medical Officer

1. Overview

- 1.1 There are regulatory, safety, security and personnel issues connected with recruitment and signing on new crew and particular legal and safety issues connected with the duties of the Safety Officer, Ship Security Officer and the Medical Officer.
- 1.2 It is therefore important to follow a simple procedure when either the Safety Officer, Ships Security Officer or Medical Officer hand over responsibilities and document the handover.
- 1.3 These hand over notes provide the company, the incoming Officer and the Captain with periodic information regarding the various areas covered.
- 1.4 It should be noted that the Captain is required to endorse these notes with a signature. Captains should be aware of what is being signed for, when approving said handover notes.
- 1.5 Note: The Safety Officer cannot hold the Medical Officer post at the same time or vice versa

2. Scope

- 2.1 This procedure should be followed by all Safety Officers, Ship Security Officers and the Medical Officers

3. Responsibilities

3.1 While these hand over notes should not be exhaustive to read, they should at least provide a clear snap shot of the completed rotation period, see.
